Membership

Membership is an opportunity to broaden your horizons, share with colleagues from across the world, develop your professional career, and be part of an ongoing conversation, in person and online.

Membership Options

IIC membership is open to those with a professional interest in conserving the world's heritage including artistic and historic works: from conservators and restorers, to conservation scientists, educators and students. We also welcome collection managers, conservation architects, curators, art historians and other cultural heritage professionals.

By becoming a member of IIC you are agreeing to the conditions of membership which can be viewed here.
