SOAS University of London is the leading Higher Education institution in Europe specialising in the study of Asia, Africa and the Near and Middle East. SOAS University of London is positioned to play a leading role in reimagining higher education globally, with a new strategic plan in place as the basis for the renewal and revitalisation of the School which commits SOAS to both student responsiveness and research intensity. SOAS is moving towards a new model of international partnerships which is responsive to the transnational character of our global challenges.

About the Department

Collections Care & Digitisation (CCD) is a unit within the SOAS-Collections Group of the SOAS Library, Learning and Research Services. The Group is comprised of CCD, Special Collections, and the Galleries. CCD is responsible for collections-care and digitisation of library collections. While it works closely within the Group, it also executes plans of action in general and remote collections.

CCD was preceded by a Digitisation unit in existence since 2013 that grew from funded digitisation projects. Addition of collections-care is intended to create a seamless core for care of physical collections and their digital transformations. While collections-care has a broad remit, it is primarily tasked with providing a conservation-for-digitisation service.

About the role

You will have an in-depth knowledge of conservation, including standards, process, workflows, and the relationship between conservation and other aspects of collection management, including access and digitisation projects.

The Conservation Leader will have a comprehensive understanding of conservation standards, technologies, and practices across a range of material cultures. You will work within Collections Care and Digitisation Department, and will be expected to work closely with colleagues in Special Collections and Access & Discovery.

About you

We are looking for a Conservation Leader to work in one of most prestigious Universities in London. You will be the first point of contact for the delivery of a professional Collection Care service for the Library, securing access to the collections for all our users while at the same time guaranteeing their availability to future generations.
