Abstract: The June issue of News in Conservation is out now and ready to be downloaded. In this issue we will present the social programme for the forthcoming IIC Vienna Congress together with the full list of papers and posters that will be presented during the event. Changes to titles and order are still likely to take place so watch out for the next issue of NiC for amendment or updates. Also in this issue, an interview with Stefan Belishki from the Department of Conservation of the National Academy of Arts in Sofia and an interesting overview of the three-years post-doctoral research project "Change or damage? Defining damage for veneer and marquetry collections", explained by Naomi Luxford, post-doctoral research fellow at the UCL Centre for Sustainable Heritage.
