Welcome to NiC

For nearly 70 years the International Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works (IIC) has promoted the knowledge, methods and working standards needed to protect and preserve cultural heritage throughout the world. Our publications have always been at the very heart of what we do.

News in Conservation is a full-colour digital conservation news publication. Published six times a year, NiC provides a platform for members of the conservation community to share the latest research, interviews and reviews; to promote new events, products and opportunities; and to call for papers, ideas and involvement. NiC also provides updates from the IIC Council and regional groups.

Global Audience

NiC is designed to complement other more technical IIC publications such as Studies in Conservation, which is IIC's peer-reviewed scientific journal. The language in NiC is more straightforward and conversational; well-crafted text and informative images which are accessible to our global readership with all levels of English proficiency. NiC subscribers not only include practising conservators and conservation students, but also conservation scientists, teachers, managers, curators, registrars, directors, administrators, conservation suppliers as well as others with an interest in conservation. We select content that will keep the professional community abreast of recent conservation news, and will also engage the non-conservator audience.

Advertising Benefits

As a long-standing and well-respected global institution, IIC is dedicated to promoting cultural heritage preservation and provides News in Conservation free of charge, open to both members and non-members alike. It is easy to download, directly from www.iiconservation.org, and share with others.

With over 2,000 direct NiC subscribers, and over 40,000 IIC followers on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and LinkedIn, featured advertisements are seen by conservation professionals and supporters all over the world.

As an increasingly dynamic and interactive global platform, News in Conservation is the ideal publication for those wishing to make their presence felt in national and international conservation arenas, enabling the promotion of products and services to purchasers and key decision makers on a global level.
